

Senior Care Centers of America and Fox Rehabilitation – Geriatric Therapy at Home Complete Therapy Services Provider Agreement

TREVOSE, PA – January 1, 2007 – Senior Care Centers of America, the second largest operator of adult day health centers in the United States, today announced it has completed a provider agreement with Cherry Hill, NJ-based Fox Rehabilitation – Geriatric Therapy at Home to be its exclusive provider of physical and occupational therapy services for its NJ and PA centers.

Physical therapy treatment focuses on improving a person's function, whether it's related to bones, joints, muscles or nerves. Typically, a person's function has been impaired in some manner as a result of either an injury, wear and tear or simply as a result of the aging process. Within the geriatric population, physical therapists most often treat functional problems like pain, balance issues, poor endurance, trouble walking and poor muscle strength. They also provide patients with therapeutic programs to keep them strong and independent.

Occupational therapy treatment focuses on helping a person achieve independence in his/her day-to-day life. With aging clients, occupational therapists typically focus on a person's bathing, dressing and grooming abilities. Occupational therapists are trained in identifying problems in these areas and are able to make recommendations for improvement. Often, adaptive equipment recommendations are made and include rolling walkers, tub benches, and adaptive eating utensils.

“Formalizing our relationship with Fox Rehabilitation through this agreement provides our clients with excellent quality rehabilitation services at our centers, provides an added convenience to their caregivers, and reliable continuity of care for our clients’ physicians,” said Jim Donnelly, President and CEO of Senior Care Centers of America.

With Fox Rehabilitation providing therapy services onsite at its centers, Senior Care is able to reduce its clients’ need to leave its facilities for therapeutic services, and focus even more time on its core client care services.

Tim Fox, MS, PT, GCS, Executive Director of Fox Rehabilitation said, “It is a privilege to work with Senior Care Centers of America, as this relationship allows Fox to enhance its mission and reach out to the geriatric community to provide high quality, geriatric-focused rehabilitation in an environment where clients feel comfortable and confident.”
